"It is a very sought-out piece of legislation by the business world," he testified.

LaFave appeared before the Assembly's Highways Committee on behalf of the proposal Monday.

He recommended the fee for renewing a standard driver's license be increased to $10 from $4.

By simultaneously doubling the life of a license, he argued, the typical motorist actually would be paying only $2 more every four years.

The Motor Vehicle Division said other states have found the cost of photographs to run about 40 cents per motorist.

Deception rampant in White House staff

WASHINGTON—The depth of White House deception of President Nixon's own official family reached a barely credible low point in February when two top White House aides promised Secretary of Commerce Frederick Dent that Jeb Stuart Magruder was wholly innocent of any involvement in Watergate and ordered Dent to hire him.

Frederick Malek, who had been the President's personnel chief before becoming deputy director of the Office of Management and Budget, was one of those two aides.

It is entirely possible that Malek was personally unaware of Magruder's deep involvement in Watergate, but that in itself would be a most sinister possibility. It would mean that the White House aides who did know the facts were using an unwitting Malek as their agent to place such Watergate-tainted aides as Magruder in new and high government posts.

But White House counsel John Dean III, described by high former administration officials as the second of the two White House aides involved in selling Magruder to Dent, most definitely did know all about Magruder's Watergate involvement.

Dean knew about Magruder

Dean was the author of the in-house Watergate report for the President last summer which completely whitewashed the White House of any Watergate involvement. For Dean not to have known about the complicity of Magruder, then with the Committee to Reelect the President, is inconceivable.

But White House pals of Magruder, a protégé of ex-staff chief H. R. Haldeman, apparently felt more loyalty to Magruder for having agreed to deny under oath any Watergate knowledge or complicity than to Dent or to President Nixon's Commerce Department.

Dent, clearly concerned about what amounted to a White House order to give Magruder a $36,000-a-year job which did not require Senate confirmation, was told by the White House that Magruder had been "cleared by the (Watergate) grand jury" and that Dent had nothing to worry about. Dent also told friends that under American jurisprudence, a man is innocent until proven guilty.

Magruder worked in his Commerce Department job, driven around town in a chauffeured limousine paid for by the Committee to Reelect the President, until he was fired on April 27. That was shortly after he went back to federal prosecutors and began to sing.

An extraordinary private communication from sponsors of the big (but undersold) fund-raising dinner May 9 for the House and Senate Republican campaign committees contains a flat statement that "the Republican party was not involved and ought not to be implicated in the Watergate incident."

That quote, from an April 25 statement by Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, former party chairman, was included in a communication to party fat cats under the letterhead of "New Majority Dinner Committee," which said:

"At no time has the Republican National Committee or its financial arm, the Republican National Finance Committee, or the congressional or senatorial committees, been accused of any wrongdoing in their political activities or handling of campaign funds last year."

WEA okays dues deduction to fund political action arm

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — A voluntary dues deduction to finance its political action arm was among actions approved by an assembly of the Wisconsin Education Association (WEA) that ended Sunday, a spokesman said.

He said some 900 teacher-delegates attended the weekend representative assembly of the WEA Council.

On a vote of 641-131, the spokesman said, they approved a voluntary, permanent dues deduction for funding Wisconsin Educators Politically Active and Concerned. The $5 annual voluntary contribution would become effective Sept. 1.

In other action, he said the assembly:

—Endorsed establishment of a coalition of all state, municipal and county employees to develop programs of mutual concern. If the coalition is agreeable, it would include the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees; the Wisconsin Professional Policemen's Association, and Professional Firefighters of Wisconsin.

—Adopted the concept of creating a state board to certify and license teachers. Presently, the state Department of Public Instruction sets all standards for certification and licensing.

—Endorsed a moratorium on standardized group intelligence and aptitude achievement tests until a critical study can be completed in conjunction with the National Education Association (NEA).

—Agreed that the organization shall not participate in programs sponsored by organizations that deny membership on the basis of race or ethnic background.

In assembly elections, George Hahner, Racine, was chosen vice president and William Sinclair, Green Bay, secretary-treasurer.

Lauri Wynn of Milwaukee will assume the presidency in September. She was elected last year.

Elected to the state executive board were: Monica McCauley, Milwaukee; Kermit Valleen, St. Croix Falls; Wes Halverson, Appleton; William Solchenberger; Adams-Friendship, and Jetty Pyle, Palmyra.

Paul duVair, Madison, was named to serve on the NEA board of directors.

Professor to speak on sex differences

The facts and fallacies of "sex differences" will be discussed Wednesday in the second presentation of the Human Equal Rights Symposium (HERS) at Lawrence University.

Dr. Ruth Bleier, associate professor of neurophysiology at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, will speak on "Sexual Differences: Fact or Fiction?" at 8 p.m. in Riverview Lounge of the Memorial Union.

Bleier is a past co-chairman of the Association of Faculty Women, a member of the Committee on United Faculty and a representative of the Wisconsin Coordinating Committee for Women in Higher Education. She is also a physician who maintained her own medical practice for eight years.

Other programs in the HERS schedule include a workshop at Lawrence Saturday. Starting at 9:30 a.m. in Riverview Lounge of the union, sessions will deal with equal employment opportunities, changes in the concepts of marriage and family and the role of affirmative action and other plans in the institutional decision making process.

Weekend hours filled with events

Calendar marked by potpourri of even

Weekend activity almost reached a frenzied pitch for women in the Fox Cities. Varied from business to purely social, the events included a meeting of Farm Bureau Women and a progressive dinner for the Ys Menettes and Men's Club. Farm Bureau was hostess to a rural-urban salad luncheon Saturday at Outagamie Bank. Women in the organization brought along urban guests to hear Marcia Lindsay, former Alice in Dairyland and Orval Aulenbacher, field supervisor for the state's Farm Bureau. Menettes and Men of the Y held a progressive dinner party Saturday evening which was themed, "South of the Border." It featured Mexican costumes and food. Cocktails were served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Johnson and progressed through soup and main course at eight members' homes. At dessert time, everyone congregated once again at Mr. and Mrs. M.J. Worthens. Co-chairmen were Mrs. Gerald Long and Mrs. Thomas Mann.

Appleton Little League's women's auxiliary was hostess to five finalists in the annual Miss Little League contest Saturday at the Columbus Club. Winning the coveted crown this year was Karlanne Rogers.

During a special awards program Friday evening at the University of Wisconsin Center-Fox Valley Campus, two women were given scholarships from the American Association of University Women. Funds were raised by the organization through its annual book sale held each fall. Recipients were Helen Nowell and Mona Moser. Mrs. Nowell is a business administration major in secondary education. Mrs. Moser is a chemistry major in English and chemistry.

Dr. and Mrs. John Zeiss were co-chairmen for the last dinner dance of the season of the Town Club. The event was Saturday evening at River Country Club.

If Aetna's All-Driver Plan doesn't offer lower rates, broader coverage, or both, why are our phones so busy?

It's great to be popular. But it's not surprising. After all, Aetna's All-Driver Plan offers some remarkable advantages. For one thing, Aetna just threw away the book to give you a better deal on car insurance rates and coverage. With All-Driver, Aetna introduces an entirely new, different method of insuring drivers. For the first time, what you pay for your insurance depends entirely on your facts, about you, your car and accident statistics in your area. Not on some individual's personal opinion. So if your present insurance company is already giving you a break, for your safe driving record, chances are we can give you a better break. Even if you're not a better driver than perfect, it could still pay you to look into All-Driver—because we designed it to meet the insurance needs of nearly every one who has a driver's license. A big percentage of the drivers who qualify for All-Driver get a break on price. All drivers get a break on coverage. In fact, All-Driver is one of the best insurance policies on the market, offering:

- Broad coverage for a wide variety of hazards.
- Limits of liability up to $1,000,000.
- Liability coverage at no extra charge for mobile home trailers, camper trailers, utility trailers.
- A bumper discount for cars that qualify.
- The best guarantee in the industry on renewal of your policy.

Yes, All-Driver gives you MORE. Call your local Aetna agent today. Or stop in and let him show you how you can qualify for lower rates or broader coverage, or both. Aetna's All-Driver Plan. It's not your average auto insurance, but then we're not your average insurance company.

Ann Landers

Learning to cook is adventure

Dear Ann Landers: When you answered that lad from Plainfield who complained about his mother's cooking, you missed a golden opportunity. Instead of telling him that hospitality is more important than food, why didn't you tell him to learn to cook? Pioneering in the kitchen can be fun.

While punching cows in the West, I was amazed at the men who could whip up a meal in no time at all. We had shepherders spuds, sourdough biscuits, smooth, lump-free gravy, beautiful steaks and delicious coffee. When I started to cook my flapjacks were like linoleum squares, but when you begin like that, you've got to get better.

Please tell your teen-age readers a world of adventure awaits them in the kitchen. A guy who can cook is ahead of the pack for reasons that may not come clear to him for many years.—Bar U Ranch, Sublette, Illinois

Dear Bar U: These days a man who can't cook is in trouble. If he has a working wife it's darned near mandatory. Thanks for the testimonial.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently I saw an advertisement in a respectable newspaper for "oils" that promised to awaken "animal instincts and arouse passion in males." I read the ad carefully. The "oils" are made of whale blubber and secretions from skunk glands.

For $10 plus tax you can get one-third of an ounce of each. The ad said the oils release some sort of mysterious odor that will "awaken the male's animal desires with a sensuous power of a wave crashing upon the shore."

I can't imagine a respectable newspaper taking such an ad unless the product is legitimate. If it works it could solve my biggest problem.

Please tell me if the stuff will do any good.—Unlucky In Love

Dear Unlucky: The oils will do a lot of good—for the company that sells them. They will get rich from suckers who should know better.

Dear Ann Landers: We live in a small community where everyone knows everyone else. At a dinner party last night a banker had a few extra drinks and started to talk about people who were having financial problems. The more he talked the more irritated I became. Finally I told him that a banker should honor a code of ethics in the same way that a doctor is expected to. In other words, "Keep your mouth shut about your clients."

His wife became angry—declared that money is non-personal and in no way can it be compared with a person's medical problems. She insisted that almost every businessman enjoys talking about his investments, his profits and losses. In fact, she said, "Money is the sum and substance of most male conversation." She was extremely articulate but I still think she was wrong. Your opinion, please?—Weston, Mass.

Dear Weston: Some clods enjoy talking about their operations, their sex life and other personal subjects. This doesn't make it acceptable.

A banker who fails to respect the confidences of his customers violates a basic principle of business ethics and good judgment.

Decorative tools

Simple but cleverly-conceived window treatments revolving around handsome shades are now important decorative tools. That is because their built-in washability makes them so practical for the budget minded. Shades that match wall paint colors come in a variety of textures and hem shapes and can fit into any room.

Once is enough for some finesses

There is some risk in taking finesses since even the surest finesses sometimes go wrong. When your choice is between a finesse and a sure-fire play, therefore, take the sure thing and let the speculation go.

West opened the five of spades, and East won with the ace. East returned the nine of spades, and South took the king and ran three rounds of clubs at once to get rid of his last spade.

South next led a low diamond from dummy. West captured the king of diamonds with the ace and hopefully led the queen of spades.

South ruffed the spade, cashed the queen of diamonds and ruffed a low diamond with dummy's small trump. He next led the queen of hearts from dummy and let it ride for a finesse.

West played a low trump with a very casual air, just as though he didn't hold the king. Declarer next led the jack of hearts from dummy and East played a low trump.

Since the first trump finesse had worked, South took it for granted that the second finesse would work also. He played a low trump from his hand and the ceiling fell in!

West won with the king of hearts and returned a trump. This cleared out dummy's trumps and left South with a losing diamond still in his hand. Down one.

The correct play is to take the ace of trumps the second time instead of finessing. South can then ruff his last diamond with dummy's last trump. The opponents will get one trick with the king of trumps, but South will surely make the contract.

Daily Question

As dealer, you have opened the bidding with 1-NT, and partner has responded two clubs. The opponents remain silent, and it is up to you again, with: S- A 9 6 3 H- K 7 2 D- K Q 5 3 C- A J. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two spades. Partner's response asks you to name a major suit if you can, and you must therefore show the four-card spade suit.

Area women elected to state AAUW posts

RACINE—Two Oshkosh women were elected to office recently during the 53rd annual state convention of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) held recently here.

State officers elected and installed were Mrs. Neil Harriman, Oshkosh, president; Mrs. L.P. Schirmacher, second vice president, LaCrosse, and Mrs. Robert Dove, Oshkosh, corresponding secretary.

More than 250 members of AAUW branches throughout the state attended the convention under the theme, "Challenge of Change."

Keynote speaker was Mrs. Lynne Stitt, program staff associate for the AAUW national office in Washington, D.C. Mrs. Stitt presented the four study/action topics to be explored by AAUW groups in the next two years. They are: "Woman: Searching for Self," "Media: Issues in Communication," "Global Interdependence: Budgeting for Earth," "Dynamic Learning: Releasing Human Potential." The topics are related to an overall AAUW theme for the two years, "Balancing Tensions, Values and Growth."

Resolutions were approved dealing with restoration of the Great Lakes, use of the Kellett Report to upgrade education in Wisconsin, reform in school financing, recycling and use of recycled products, comprehensive and orderly planning and zoning, and reforms in criminal justice and correction.

Appleton Branch members attending the convention as delegates were Mrs.

Judson E. Fowler, Appleton president, and Mrs. John Collins, president elect.

Dr. G. C. Thosteson Prostate surgery can be done three ways

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My question has to do with the "reaming" surgery frequently performed on the prostate gland of elderly men.

To my knowledge, the cutting area always has been approached exclusively through the urinary canal. But a friend reports that he just had this surgery and entry was made through his abdominal wall. The gland, itself, was not excised.

Your opinion, please.—C.M.S.

The prostate is a chestnut-sized organ that straddles the urethral tube which leads from the bladder to the penis and the urinary canal. When enlarged, the prostate tends to crimp the tube, making urination difficult and sometimes backing up to the kidney, causing all sorts of complications.

Surgery is often required to set things straight.

There are three general avenues of approach for the surgeon—suprapubic (through the abdomen), perineal (through the area between the legs) and transurethral (through the penis) and this latter method is the one you refer to as the "reaming" method.

I don't like your word because it has a needlessly ominous ring to it that can cause undue concern in the patient.

The method of approach is an absolute judgment call by the operating surgeon depending on the location of the enlargement and the potential extent of actual surgery.

Often, when the surgeon has reached the prostate area, a biopsy will be taken on the prostate to determine if it is cancerous and if complete removal is in order.

In the absence of such a condition, the extent of surgery is again a judgment call.

I suggest that, both in the method of entry and the degree of surgery done, the doctor's recommendations be followed.

Perhaps, in your friend's case, the doctor did not find the condition he suspected and decided no surgery was required.

You may want further information about the prostate. If so, send for my booklet, "The Pesky Prostate," enclosing 25 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Post-Crescent.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please tell me why I wake each morning with pain in my back and sides. I don't have any backache during the day or before I go to bed, but every morning I ache so I can't stay in bed.—H.P.

It could be some sort of defect in the back—but before you go hunting for serious trouble, try what often turns out to be a ridiculously simple answer.

Your bed may be soft and saggy enough so your spine goes into an uncomfortable curve.

Get a very firm mattress—or, much cheaper, try a bed board. That's just a sheet of plywood between the springs and mattress, but it takes the extra sag out.

Tuesday, May 8, 1973

The Post-Crescent, Appleton-Neenah-Menasha, Wis. A-16

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had surgery five years ago for cysts, having an ovary removed and both Fallopian tubes. What are my chances of having a baby?

I have read about having artificial tubes. My doctor would have everything set up for me if this were what I wanted, but he didn't recommend it. What do you think? —N.R.

I wouldn't recommend it either. It might work, but it might not—and unless a patient was thoroughly prepared to have the operation and then find that pregnancy still couldn't be achieved, I wouldn't want to risk the disappointment of a failure.

Diverticulosis is a bulge in the digestive tract. To become more familiar with the subject, write for Thosteson's booklet, "Don't Let Diverticulosis Throw You," enclosing a long, self-addressed (use ZIP code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Mayor picks panel chiefs

Mayor James Sutherland has formed committees to study the bicycling and swimming pool needs of Appleton. Named to head the bicycle committee was Gerhard Willecke, past Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce president and vice president for Miller Electric Mfg. Co., and swimming pool, Willecke Wollwage John C. Wollwage, retired vice president of research and engineering, Kimberly-Clark Corp.

Sutherland said he saw the charge of the City Council to the bicycling committee as encompassing a broad range of concerns, including but not limited to bike trails, downtown parking and safety. He noted bicycling has grown to where it has "far-reaching economic, transportation, health, safety, recreational and ecological ramifications."

Sutherland said Wollwage's committee would be given the task of studying the city's future swimming pool needs, delving into the questions of cost, location, type, size and jurisdictional control. He said the absence of these answers was one of the reasons the 1973 budget included no pool funds.

However, the mayor added there is an "obvious need for more pool facilities, and the city must evaluate the priority of that need."

No reporting timetable was announced for the committees.

Most of EEA ing runs out

Woehler guessed that most of the 24 would be retained after November.

Although EEA funds have stopped, program guidelines will remain in effect until funds are spent. The county still gets requests to hire workers under the program, according to Woehler, who is EEA chief for the county.

The success of the EEA program locally is illustrated, Woehler added, by the letters of praise from nearly all participating agencies in the county.

Rigid screening of prospective EEA candidates resulted in many of them receiving permanent employment, Woehler said.

Ex-Menasha mayor admits getting gifts

MENASHA — Former Menasha Mayor John Klein admitted today that he "did accept some gifts" from chemical company salesmen while in office, but "I'm very innocent, as far as I'm concerned" of any serious wrongdoing.

The 51-year-old former mayor turned part-time bartender was interviewed in the wake of allegations printed in the Milwaukee Journal that Klein, while mayor, accepted kickbacks from Del Chemical Co., Menomonee Falls, in exchange for large chemical orders from the city.

Meanwhile, two aldermen say it might be a good idea for the city to look at present city purchasing arrangements to see if they should be changed because they give the mayor too much control over purchasing.

Mayor James Adams, however, who was a moving force behind the present investigation into alleged past kickbacks to Menasha officials, said there is no need to change the centralized purchasing setup initiated here in 1971, after he took office.

"The way the system is set up now, the city has checks and balances," he said. "You're only going to be as honest as the person at the top, and that's where you get to the element of trust."

Robert Anderson, a salesman for Chemical Supply Co., of Menasha, which sells sewer cleaning and swimming pool disinfecting chemicals to the city, said he knows of "no other city where the mayor has so much control over purchasing."

He said most other cities buy chemicals after advertising for bids. "Menasha has never put out bids," he said.

Adams, however, said you "can't bid all of that stuff" because of the paperwork cost involved for small purchases. "You'd never get anything done."

Klein, a central figure in the purchasing investigation that is being conducted by the state Department of Justice and involves municipalities throughout the state, said today that he accepted both money and gifts from chemical salesmen during his terms of office.

"But there were no agreements or arrangements made," he said. "I guess I should have known better. I did it innocently."

Klein said he "was probably naive and foolish" in accepting the cash and gift offers from the chemical supplier.

Klein served as mayor from 1960-66 and 1968-70. During those years, over $18,000 worth of items was purchased from Del Chemical, according to the Journal. An unidentified former Del salesman said Klein received ten per cent of that in kickbacks.

Klein said today that many companies have given officials gifts. Aldermen, department heads and others received presents from several companies, he said, around Christmas time.

"On any purchase order I ever signed," he said, "the requisition had to be made by the department head, signed by the city clerk and then it came to the mayor's desk."

Interest in chemical purchases in this city began back in early 1970, when Ald. Herbert Batley was told that the city was dumping chemicals that were being left unused.

He asked the late Street Supt. Earl Kohler, who the Journal said also received kickbacks from Del for chemical purchases, to report on the city's chemical inventory at that time.

Kohler reported that $4,800 worth of chemicals had been dumped in mid-1969, after they had gone bad. The city was heavily overstocked, he reported, and efforts would be made to "reduce the inventory of chemicals as much as possible," Kohler reported.

Batley said he took the information on the dumping of chemicals, and the subsequent purchase of many of the chemicals that were dumped, to the common council in an executive session.

"I was told that it was useless," he said. He said that "we could never prove anything."

He said Kohler told him of the kickbacks, which he claimed to Batley he had never accepted, just two weeks before he died of a heart attack in April, 1970.

Many of the chemicals that were purchased were nearly useless to the city. The quantities were much more than the city could use.

"The chemicals I found when I came into office were way beyond any potential use by the city," said former Mayor Kenneth Holmes, who served from 1966-68, in between Klein's two stints as executive.

Holmes ordered an end to chemical purchases. No chemicals were purchased from Del during his two year term.

At the time, Holmes said, he had suspicions about the chemical purchases.

"I wasn't trying to get anything on anybody," he added, however. "After I'd been in office a while I looked back and I had suspicions. But I didn't let it bother me, because I was trying to run the office as efficiently as I could."

When Holmes left office and Klein returned, in 1968, purchases from Del resumed.

The Journal story alleged that Klein was a friend of Rocco Youse, president of Del Chemical, and that the two did business for years.

Holmes said that a Del salesman visited him soon after he took office in 1966. "I told him I would sell him some chemicals, because we had a lot more than we could use."

No offer of a gift was made, he said. "I can honestly say that nobody ever made me any kind of offer as long as I was in office."

The News-Record began reporting on the chemical irregularities back in May, 1971, when a hearing was held before a state examiner on Mrs. Kohler's death benefit claim from the city's insurance carrier.

Batley told about the heavy chemical purchases and a telephone call between Klein and Kohler, when the "chemical matter" was allegedly discussed, was cited by Mrs. Kohler as a contributing cause in Kohler's death.

Since that hearing, the state Justice Department has investigated the activities of Del and other chemical firms throughout the state in the closed-door John Doe investigation being conducted in Judge William Crane's court in Oshkosh.

Adams, who initiated a detailed investigation into chemical purchases by the city soon after he took office in 1970, said today that there was "no way" to prevent purchasing irregularities by dishonest officials.

"A guy that wants to find loopholes can do it," he said. He said the only protection are investigations like that conducted by the state, when "the bad apples can be weeded out."

Ald. Batley and Council President Felix Ropella, Jr., however, said the city should look at present purchasing practices to see if there can be tighter control.

Anderson said chemical sales to Menasha depended almost entirely on "who the mayor is," because he has so much control.

During Klein's terms, Chemical Supply did little selling to Menasha.

Airline, county try to resolve lease

Outagamie County and Air Wisconsin officials were meeting this morning in an attempt to resolve conflicts over the airline's proposed lease for space in a new airport terminal.

The county board's Airport Committee hoped to have an Air Wisconsin lease commitment ready for board action tonight so terminal construction bids can be advertised.

The board voted 40-1 last month approving architect plans for a $465,600 terminal, but further authorization hinges on a space lease with Air Wisconsin, principal occupant of the new building and a payment plan for the county's share of the project cost.

A major problem surfaced during an airport committee meeting Monday when supervisors and Air Wisconsin found themselves at odds over what the airline was expected to pay the county for space in the new building.

Air Wisconsin Vice President John Conway said the airline was ready to enter into a 20-year lease in which it would pay $2.50 a square foot for 6,409 feet of second floor space and $4 for 1,820 feet on the first floor.

A surprised Sup. Richard Jahnke of Appleton, airport committee chairman, told Conway the board understood Air Wisconsin was ready to pay considerably more. Jahnke had promised the board that the terminal could be built without using tax money.

State and federal aids are expected to total about $175,000 and the remaining county share would be amortized over 20 years through lease payments by Air Wisconsin and car rental agencies and by vendors and advertisers.

The airport committee had anticipated Air Wisconsin would use 9,100 square feet in the 15,000 foot building. However, Conway said Monday that exterior measurements had been used in computing the square footage.

Using interior measurements, Conway set the airline's space needs at 8,229 square feet, which would mean much lower payments than the port committee projected.

Conway explained that even with the reduced lease figures, the county could realize amortization of the terminal costs as projected. He believed the county was low in its estimation of some anticipated revenues from other terminal users.

Considering bond principal and interest, the county's total obligation over the 20 years will be about $587,000. Corp. Counsel William Schuh said the county will have to bond for about

County to determine if expressway still is wanted

Several Fox Cities communities are being polled by the Outagamie County Board highway committee to learn if they are still interested in pursuing the 10-year-old idea for expressway systems entwining the Fox Cities.

The letters are being sent by Clarence Brownson, county highway commissioner, after the committee voted to ask the communities to provide a resolution to it indicating they still are willing to support the expressway project.

The committee action comes on the heels of a meeting with Village of Little Chute officials who are concerned about the land in their community being reserved for the proposed State 55 Expressway. They are wondering if the project will ever come to pass or if the village land will just continue to lie dormant for years, said Supv. George Kroes, committee chairman.

The proposed expressways would include about 12 miles of road in the counties of Outagamie, Winnebago and Calumet. It was set up on a 30-year program 10 years ago.

The 55 Expressway would run from 55 in Calumet north through Kaukauna south of the Fox River and Little Chute north of the river to U.S. 41. Some right-of-way land has been reserved for the expressway for years.

Kroes said if the municipalities were interested in continuing the proposed projects, the committee would ask the county board to continue engineering and right-of-way action in the county.

Letters were sent to the towns of Buchanan and VandenBroek, Kaukauna and Little Chute on the 55 project; and the towns of Grand Chute and Buchanan, Appleton, and Kimberly on the French Road project, a part of the tri-county expressway.

Ervin to subpoena Dean for Watergate hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., announced today that his special Watergate investigating committee will open hearings May 17 and has agreed to subpoena ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III.

Ervin said that if the committee determines it is necessary Dean will be granted limited immunity from prosecution in order to obtain his testimony regarding high-level administration involvement in the Watergate scandal.

The committee's immunity grant does not prevent Dean from being tried and convicted on other evidence but only from having his own testimony used against him.

Dean is reported to have told government investigators that President Nixon personally congratulated him last September for covering up the role of top White House aides in Watergate.

The White House on Monday denied that the President had any role in any such cover-up.

Ervin said the long-awaited public hearing to probe Watergate and other presidential campaign activities will be held beginning at 10 a.m. May 17 and will be scheduled three days a week thereafter on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays.

Federal prosecutors reportedly have refused to promise Dean that he will not be prosecuted for testimony to the federal grand jury investigating the break-in and bugging of Democratic national headquarters.

This development could lead Dean to remain publicly silent on the affair until after any trial—which could mean months—for fear of possible self-incrimination.

But a grant of immunity before the Senate panel—while it would not guarantee that Dean won't be prosecuted on the basis of evidence offered by others—would allow him to testify publicly in advance of a trial without being prosecuted for his own words.

The Justice Department and Chief U.S. Dist. Judge John J. Sirica must approve any grant of immunity for Senate testimony.

The Dean debate comes after the White House issued a fresh denial in response to news reports that Dean is prepared to say he believes President Nixon knew of a White House coverup of the Watergate affair.

"Any suggestion that the President participated in any coverup activities is untrue," Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said at the White House Monday.

Also Monday Elliot L. Richardson promised that he would name a special, independent prosecutor in the Watergate case if he is confirmed as attorney general. Richardson, who still is Secretary of Defense pending Senate action on his Justice Department nomination, said he would submit his choice for prosecutor to the Senate for its approval, even though this isn't required.

In other developments Monday:

—Former Asst. Atty. Gen. Robert C. Mardian, under orders by Sirica, testified to the grand jury about a meeting he had with convicted Watergate conspirator G. Gordon Liddy three days after the break-in last summer.

Mardian had claimed that he enjoyed the lawyer-client privilege of confidentiality because Liddy asked him at the meeting to be his counsel, but prosecutors called this a "sham."

Mardian and Frederick C. LaRue, both Nixon campaign deputies at the time, both allegedly were present at the Liddy meeting. News accounts have named Mardian and LaRue as two who directed destruction of evidence after the Watergate burglars were caught.

—Another Watergate conspirator, E. Howard Hunt, was granted immunity by Sirica to testify before the Senate panel. He already had been given immunity before the grand jury, and is considered safe from further prosecution.

tion in the case.

—Grand jury testimony by Hunt was released in the Pentagon Papers trial in Los Angeles, in which Hunt said former presidential counselor Charles Colson ordered him to forge phony State Department cablegrams. The cables made it appear that President John F. Kennedy had ordered the assassination of South Vietnamese Premier Ngo Dinh Diem in 1963.

Colson denied giving the order, but said it was possible Hunt had misinterpreted something he said. The forgeries apparently are those eventually destroyed by L. Patrick Gray III, who resigned as acting FBI director after the destruction was disclosed.

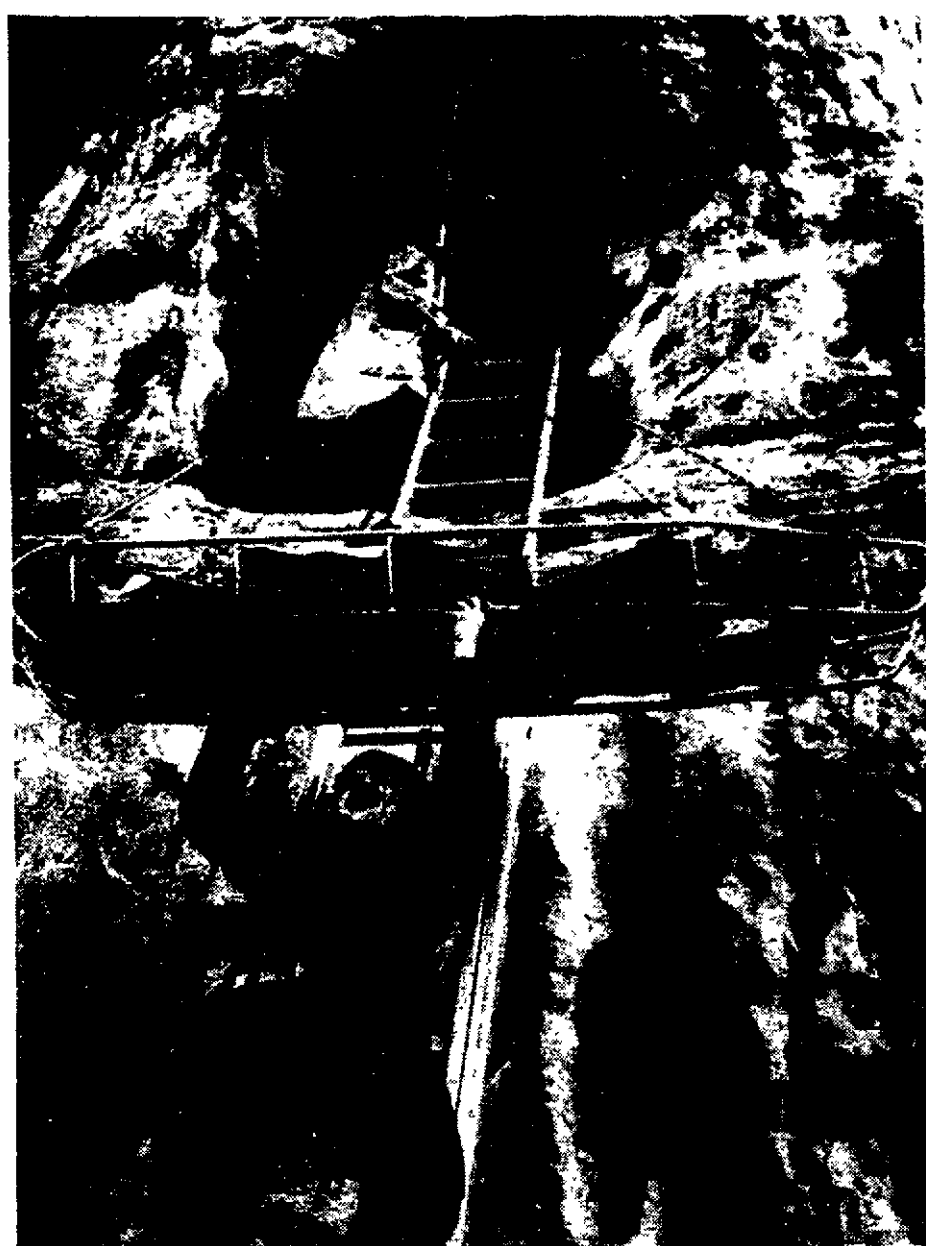

—Former White House aide Egil "Bud" Krogh, now on indefinite leave as undersecretary of transportation, admitted that he "agreed to the mission" to burglarize the office of the former psychiatrist of Pentagon Papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg in 1971.

Krogh, in a sworn affidavit made public at Ellsberg's Los Angeles trial, said he acted after President Nixon personally instructed him to "move ahead with the greatest urgency" to plug news leaks of classified material. But he said that after the break-in he was told he had exceeded his authority, and was instructed not to undertake any more secret activities against Ellsberg.

—Former Nixon campaign treasurer Hugh Sloan Jr. reportedly testified that he felt he had been asked to commit perjury in January's Watergate trial.

A knowledgeable source said Sloan testified in a deposition given in the Watergate lawsuits that Jeb S. Magruder twice asked him to testify that he paid less money to convicted wiretap conspirator G. Gordon Liddy than the $199,000 Sloan eventually swore he had handed over. Sloan testified Monday that he had told federal prosecutors about the alleged perjury matter, but that he knew of nothing that was done about it.

JFK forgery plot detailed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt has testified that special presidential counsel Charles W. Colson directed him to forge cablegrams linking President John F. Kennedy to the killing of South Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem.

Hunt, in Watergate grand jury testimony released here Monday by the Pentagon papers trial judge, said he had found enough in State Department files to hint at Kennedy involvement in the 1963 assassination. But he said Colson declared that wasn't "good enough" and ordered the forgeries.

In Washington, Colson denied the charge.

U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne released the testimony as part of the mounting evidence of government involvement in the Pentagon papers case and the prosecution of codefendant Daniel Ellsberg.

Hunt said he was working on a White House probe of the Pentagon papers leak in 1971 when he spotted documents that might be used to embarrass the late President Kennedy's family. He said some documents also appeared to be missing, and he figured those would be the most damaging.

Hunt said he relayed this information to Colson, and Hunt quoted Colson as saying, "Well, what kind of material have you dug up on the files that would indicate Kennedy complicity?"

"... I showed him three or four cables that indicated that they had pretty close to pulled the trigger against Premier Diem's head, but it didn't say so in so many words," Hunt said in testimony before the grand jury last Wednesday.

"Inferentially, one could say that is was a high degree of administration complicity in the actual assassination of Diem and his brother."

He recalled that Colson said, "Well, this isn't good enough. Do you think you could improve on them?"

"I said, 'Yes, I probably could, but not without technical assistance,' Hunt testified, noting that as a former CIA agent he had been given training in "floating forged newspaper accounts, telegrams, that sort of thing...."

"So he (Colson) said, 'Well, we won't be able to give you any technical help. This is too hot. See what you can do on your own.'"

Hunt then detailed how he used a Xerox machine, razor blades and a typewriter and "I set about creating two cables which bore on that particular period."

In early November 1963, Diem and his brother Ngo Dinh Nhu were shot to death during a coup. The Pentagon papers study of the Vietnam war shows that Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and other U.S. officials supported the

Officers tied to military scandal

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former sergeant major of the Army, convicted on conspiracy charges, testified today that a retired major general accepted favors from military clubs in exchange for allowing the sergeants who ran them to rake off illegal profits.

Former Sgt. Maj. William O. Wooldridge said Maj. Gen. William Cunningham, commander of the 24th Infantry Division while both men were in Germany, accepted free liquor and furniture delivered to his door.

For that reason, Wooldridge said he believes the Army decided not to expose illegal rackets from slot machine operations of more than $500,000. If the Army prosecuted Wooldridge and other noncommissioned officers, it would also have to expose Cunningham and other high-ranking Army officers, Wooldridge said in testimony before a Senate government operations subcommittee.

Cunningham, now retired and living in the United States, has not been charged with accepting any of the favors alleged by Wooldridge.

Wooldridge and three other sergeants convicted by a federal court in Los Angeles of defrauding the military club system, agreed to testify before the committee prior to their sentencing. All had previously taken the Fifth Amendment during an earlier series of hearings in 1969.

Another former sergeant, Seymour Lazar, said it is the club system which encourages widespread corruption.

"It's been going on since 1776," he said. "It gets more exotic all the time."

Wooldridge, the first man to ever hold the job of Army Sergeant Major said he used his position to control the transfer of his friends, who in turn were raking off the profits of the service clubs.

Wooldridge said that in Vietnam he came to the aid of two noncommissioned officers arrested for black market currency violations. He said Maj. Gen. John H. Hay, then commander of the U.S. First Division, was persuaded that the two men should not be prosecuted.

The two were allowed to return to the U.S. and retire rather than face courts martial.

Senate investigators quoted Wooldridge as saying there was clear evidence the men were guilty of illicit behavior. One of them, former Sgt. Seymour Lazar, was convicted with Wooldridge and scheduled to appear with him.

In Germany in 1966, Wooldridge told the investigators, the commander of the 24th Infantry Division, Maj. Gen. William Cunningham, was aware that a percentage of slot machine profits was being stolen by the sergeants who ran the service clubs.

Global threat seen in resource shortage

WASHINGTON (AP) — The controversial theory that resources shortages may actually threaten modern civilization today won official support from a U.S. government agency for the first time.

In the first comprehensive survey of U.S. mineral resources since 1952, the U.S. Geological Survey warned that "not merely (U.S.) affluence, but world civilization" are "in jeopardy."

The Geological Survey published a 722-page, item-by-item analysis of U.S. supply and demand in 64 mineral resources and warned that many of them are, or will be, in short supply.

A study prepared at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology two years ago, called "The Limits To Growth," warned that modern civilization would overshoot the world's ability to sustain it, and would collapse unless population growth and industrial production are soon curtailed.

A similar view was expressed by British scientists in a paper called "Blueprint for Survival."

But such ideas have been criticized by others, including public officials, who charged that the gloomy projections were based on inadequate data and shaky assumptions.

The new Geological Survey study, which set itself the task of gauging the adequacy of mineral supplies for the future, thus lends new, and for the first time official, support to the dire warnings of the "Limits" and "Blueprint" studies.

"Careful study of ... the volume in its entirety," wrote editors Donald A. Brobat and Walden P. Pratt, "leads to the conclusion that only a few commodities are readily available to the United States in quantities adequate to last for hundreds of years."

"By no means is it too early to become concerned about future mineral supplies—and to start planning."

"The real extent of our dependence on mineral resources places in jeopardy not merely affluence, but world civilization," they said.

Brobat and Pratt urged that the environmental problems of mining "enormous volumes of low-grade ores" should be tackled "squarely, realistically, and soon ... between industry and the public at large."

They pointed to "the extent to which many potential byproducts or coproducts are literally being wasted—lost forever—because there is no apparent economic incentive for recovering them."

In addition, they said, "the cost and availability of the required energy are probably the single most important factors that will ultimately determine whether or not a particular mineral deposit can be worked economically," as the mining industry delves into low-grade ores.

Geological Survey Director V.E. McKelvey, in a chapter on mineral resource estimates and public policy, expressed personal confidence that the world can develop adequate mineral resources to support and create high standards of living for thousands of years to come.

McKelvey based his view on the "undeveloped potential ... in each of the processes by which we create resources."

Consul freed unharmed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (AP) — "Thank God," said U.S. Consul General Terrance G. Leonhardy when he returned home Monday night and embraced his wife 76 hours after a guerrilla band kidnapped him on a street here.

"I am very happy," the 58-year-old diplomat said. With bloodshot eyes and a heavy, gray stubble on his cheeks and chin, he made a brief appearance for photographers supported by his wife on one side and Jack Higgins of the State Department on the other. But his doctor would not allow him to answer newsmen's questions.

Leonhardy was freed, tired but unharmed, 39 hours after the Mexican government released 30 persons from jail and flew them to Cuba to ransom the American.

"I can only express how happy I am to be free again and reunited with my family and with friends and colleagues, both Mexican and American," he said in a brief statement read to newsmen from him by a spokesman.

"I would also like to say how deeply grateful I am to all those who helped so much, and especially to the Mexican authorities whose constant preoccupation and efforts made my release possible."

There was no immediate word where Leonhardy was held after a group of armed men grabbed him Friday afternoon as he drove home alone.

Mrs. Leonhardy was in the United States at the time, beginning a 10-day visit with friends, but rushed back Saturday and joined the couple's two young daughters.

The first word of Leonhardy's release came when he called his home at 10:25 p.m. from a local bar. Jack Dennis, an information officer at the consulate, answered the phone.

"A woman was on the telephone with a very low voice, and she sounded strained," Dennis said. She told him: "Consul General Leonhardy is here."

"Where?" Dennis asked.

"Morelos 1864."

"May I speak with him?"

There was a pause, then a man's voice said: "This is Terrance Leonhardy."

"I recognized his voice right away," Dennis said. "Then his wife got on the telephone, and I didn't hear what was said."

Dennis said he did not know if the kidnapers had dropped Leonhardy off in front of the bar or some distance away.

A consulate car with a doctor picked him up and brought him home. He entered the house at 10:45 p.m. through a side door to evade the jam of newsmen and onlookers outside.

Leonhardy was the first foreign diplomat kidnaped in Mexico, although political terrorists have kidnaped two Mexican officials in the past two years.

A previously unknown terrorist group called the Revolutionary Armed Forces of the People (FRAP) kidnaped Leonhardy. In addition to the release of the 30 prisoners it listed, the group demanded that its communiques be published and televised. President Luis Echeverria ordered that the demands be met speedily to not endanger Leonhardy's life.

The 30 youths named by the terrorists were taken from their cells in Mexico City and six states, and the air force flew them to Havana on Sunday morning. There were reports that the kidnapers then made new demands, but there was no confirmation of this.

Leonhardy has spent 30 years in State Department service, including previous time in Mexico. He came to Guadalajara from El Salvador and is scheduled to retire next year.

Attic sponsors drama classes

Attic Community Theatre of Apple- ton will be sponsoring creative drama- tics classes for children this summer at the Lawrence University Music-Drama Center. The six week sessions, begin- ning June 18 and lasting through July 27, will be offered for boys and girls ages 8 to 15.

Eight to 10-year-olds will meet from 1 to 2 Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Eleven to 13-year-olds will meet from 2:30 to 4 on the same days. Fourteen and 15-year-olds will meet from 1 to 4 on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

James Mueller, Director of Drama at Armstrong High School, Neenah, will be the instructor. He identifies the objectives of creative dramatics as the development of self-awareness and a heightened awareness of people and things around the student. He hopes to achieve these objectives through the use of theatre games and improvisa- tion. He emphasizes that the classes will not be production oriented.

Mueller is well qualified to instruct creative dramatics. After earning his undergraduate degree in drama and speech at WSU-Stevens Point in 1965, he began using techniques of creative dramatics while teaching at Madison West High School. His thesis for his master's degree in theater, also earned at Stevens Point, was concerned with the use of creative dramatics to develop self-awareness in students from grade one through college. During his two years in Neenah, Mueller has again made extensive use of creative drama- tics in his classes and in play produc- tions.

Students interested in enrolling should fill out an enrollment blank that will soon appear in Fox Cities news- papers. The absolute enrollment deadline will be June 7. However, each class will be limited to 30 students so admissions will be made on a first come-first serve basis.

People desiring further information are advised to contact Jim Mueller, 644 Oak St., Neenah, or Attic Theatre President H. P. Dixon, 614 E. Grant St., Appleton.

TV Scout Stanley cup finale?

7-10 — Channel 5 — In what could be the deciding game of the Stanley Cup playoffs, the Montreal Canadiens host the Chicago Black Hawks in National Hockey League play. Montreal leads the best-of-seven series, 3-1. To add to Chicago's woes, which include a "must" victory tonight to stay alive, the Black Hawks have never beaten the Canadiens in Stanley Cup competition at Montreal.

8:30-10 — Channels 2-7 — The New Tuesday Night Movies has three very funny unsold pilots, all of which, based on what's seen here, are worthy of getting a chance. There's The Nancy Dussault Show which has Nancy as a Broadway musical comedy performer, Karen Morrow as her roommate, Lawrence Pressman as her new hus- band, John Byner as disappointed swain, Burt Mustin as the stage door- man (who once saw her naked) and, in a funny bit, Patty Regan as a chorine. Pick Van Dyke directed this. Two's Company, like Nancy's show, is fast- paced and a new version of a pilot done earlier. Diana Sands is the holdover as the wife of a pro football player, with Beah Richards as her mother and John Amos as Diana's husband. An obscene telephone call is the plot crux. Watch for Dick Stahl as a telephone company man. The Ted Bessell Show, written by Bruce Jay Friedman, is very adult for TV, with Barra Grant as Ted's wife and a story line about whether or not to be unfaithful.

7:30-8:30 — Channels 2-7 — The early part of Hawaii Five-O is devoted to our heroes trying to get at a kidnapped child, being held in a deserted army bunker. Then we have to find out who is behind the deal (R)

9-10 — Channels 9-11 — Marcus Welby, M.D. has a tale which will have you caring for the young people involved. Lindsay Wagner plays a young wife who feels her marriage (to Rick Lenz) is based on sex. When she is stricken with multiple sclerosis, she and her husband have to reexamine their feelings. (R)

Band, wind groups to be featured at UWGB

GREEN BAY — A famous in- strumental work by Handel — originally composed for wind instruments but now usually heard in an orchestral arrangement — will be a highlight of the concert to be presented at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday by the Concert Band and Wind Ensemble of the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay.

The composition is the Water Music Suite, written in 1715 for an aquatic fete honoring George I of England shortly after his accession to the throne. Composed for "wind band," as such an ensemble was known at the time, the suite includes five movements in a festive mood, two of which are based on popular dances of the period, the minuet and hornpipe. The Water Music Suite was first played by musicians on a barge floating down the Thames River from Limehouse to Whitehall.

Also on the program is another composition with a British flavor, but written in the contemporary idiom — a suite of English dances composed in 1951 by Malcolm Arnold. Both suites will be performed by the 50-member wind ensemble, along with the fugue

Sweet Adelines initiate 'Friends' project

Several members of the Appleton chapter of Sweet Adelines are involved in the "Make a New Friend" project. According to Sweet Adeline president Mrs. Lynn Williams, the activity got underway because of members' wishes to do more in the community.

"One of the members came up with the idea that each member should make a new friend in a nursing home," said Mrs. Williams. She explained that the friend should be a person who had few visitors, one who would need a friend and would enjoy being a friend in return.

A letter of introduction was sent to each resident of Appleton's Extended Care Center who would be visited. Since that initial step, these new friends are visited twice a month.

On occasion, said Mrs. Williams, Sweet Adeline members bring small gifts, send greeting cards on special days and with weather permitting, will take nursing home residents on outings this summer. Other special singing programs and summer fun days are being planned by the group.

A recent activity sponsored by the Paca Belles was a "4 for the Show" program recently featuring choruses from Appleton, Green Bay, Waupaca and Neenah-Menasha at the Waupaca

High School gym. Quartets from all four chapters performed individually and joined together for the grand finale.

The Appleton chapter's octet entertained last week at a Mother/Daughter Banquet at Seymour's Emmanuel Lutheran Church.

Van Boxtel fires 300 game

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent staff writer
"All I wanted to do was throw the ball before passing out," said 22-year-old Bill Van Boxtel after making Bowl-O-Rama history by hitting a 300 game at the 41 Bowl Monday night.
"I never saw anything like it, it was wonderful," said Ron Murphy, a teammate of Van Boxtel's who was bowling with him last night.
"I was a few lanes away," said Jack Van Lanen of Little Chute, "but he looked cool as a cucumber and the 11th and 12th ones had to go down. He was right in there, like nothing bothered him at all."
Van Boxtel, who was "ready to go home" after hitting 149 in his opening game, electrified the Bowl-O-Rama crowd with his perfect score.
"After I had the first four, I started to get loose and move around the lanes a little bit," Bill noted. "The first nine were perfect, in the pocket, but those last three had to be light mixers. I was so nervous I don't even know just what happened, but they all went down."
Greg Coenen and Ken Tourville, co-owners at C and T American, who put up the 1973 AMC Hornet Sportabout Wagon as the grand prize for a perfect game, stopped out at the 41 Bowl to celebrate with Van Boxtel after the 300.
Can use the car
"We're particularly happy that it was someone from the Fox Cities," Coenen said. "It wasn't lucky or anything like that. He's a 190 average bowler and another thing, he told us he can really use the car. They have two small children and the Sportabout will really come in handy for them."
Bill lives at 1708 N. Wilmer St. in Appleton, is married and has two children, Kelly (3) and Paul (1). He is a welder at Miller Electric.
Bill has been bowling in leagues in the Appleton area for seven years and this past season participated in the Super Bowl's 3-man Scratch League on Monday's, the Veterans League on Wednesday at overall mark of 199 for 1972-73. Bowling with Bill last night were members of the team he subbed for in the Merchants League at the 41

DiGregorio keys overtime win

NEW YORK (AP) — Even in basketball, there's a place for the little man.
Ernie DiGregorio of Providence, the littlest man on the floor, proved it Monday night as he sparked the U.S. squad to an 89-80 overtime victory over the touring Russian National basketball team before 15,734 at Madison Square Garden.
"Ernie sure got us going when we needed it, didn't he?" praised U.S. Coach Bob Cousy, a pretty fair little man in his own right. "He picked us up when we were in trouble, big trouble."
Ernie D. sank a pair of baskets in the final minute of regulation play to erase a 73-69 Russian lead, hit two baskets in overtime and set up two more to put the Americans out ahead, then stymied the Russians with his artful dribbling and ballhandling.
"As I've said before, Ernie is the best player—pound for pound—that I've seen in college this year. Some of the things he does are just amazing."
The Russian coach, Vladimir Kandrashev, was equally impressed.
"If we had him, we wouldn't lose any games," Kandrashev said.
From the time he re-entered the game, with 2:08 to go in regulation, up until the finish, Ernie D. was the whole show.
"At the end I felt I had to take over—and I did," said the six-foot All-American. That he did. His shooting was deadly, his passing brilliantly accurate, his dribbling dazzlingly deft.
Not quite basketball
In the overtime, with the U.S. squad safely in front, he ran circles around the Russians as they tried to take the ball away from him. None could catch him. "I don't think any of them can take the ball away from me," he said afterwards, with more honesty than bragadocio. "It's not their style."
Ah, their style—basketball.
"It's not quite basketball as we know and love it," said Cousy, smiling.
"Blatant, dirty fouls," said 69 center Len Elmore of Maryland. "They do everything they can get away with—elbows, grabbing your jersey, hitting in the back when you go for rebounds. It's brutal."

What the Russians lack in finesse—and they lack a lot—they make up for in power. Under the boards they can hold their own with anyone, but they do not have the finesse or agility of the Americans. So they concentrate on what they do best—hammer away under the boards until the ball drops through, or a foul is called.
"It's a rough game, but those are international rules and we agreed to play by them," Cousy said.
A total of 75 fouls were called on the two clubs. Eight players fouled out. Five of them were Russians, including the team star, Aleksandr Belov, who had 13 points.
DiGregorio led both clubs with 25 points and 11 assists. Barnes, in his best showing since injuring his knee in the NCAA semifinals, had 21 points, many on spectacular feeds from DiGregorio. Elmore had eight rebounds and Ron Behagen seven to pace the Americans, who outrebounded the visitors 32-28.

Cincinnati joins WHA

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati, tired of waiting for the National Hockey League to grant it a franchise, became a member of the young World Hockey Association Monday.
WHA President Gary L. Davidson, who departed for the West Coast immediately after the franchise announcement, said two other cities under consideration for franchises are Miami and Vancouver. The latter is already an NHL city.
Davidson said the WHA was "delighted" to come to Cincinnati because of the city's past support "of big league teams."
Steve Arnold, WHA personnel director, said the Cincinnati franchise will begin operation in 1974-75.
The city currently has a team, the Cincinnati Swords of the American Hockey League, a farm club of the NHL's Buffalo Sabres. The Swords are playing Nova Scotia in the Calder Cup championship finals—and lead the best-of-seven series 2-0.

Brian Heekin, president of the Cincinnati Hockey Club Inc., said his group decided to accept the WHA offer six weeks ago after the NHL confirmed a franchise for Kansas City.
"That was the turning point," said Heekin.
CHC said the NHL board of governors had promised it a future franchise. In Montreal, however, the NHL said Cincinnati had never been promised a franchise, only that the league had promised to keep the city under consideration.
Price of the WHA franchise was $2 million, Heekin said. A proposed NHL franchise would have cost an estimated $6 million.
CHC, meanwhile, is working out details with Cincinnati city officials to build a $20 million, 17,500-seat arena adjacent to Riverfront Stadium. Heekin said completion date must be in October 1974.

Padres stop Cubs, White Sox

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Boston's John Curtis had some unprintable things to say about the weather in Chicago Monday night, so it's a good thing he wasn't working at his off-season job as a sports writer at the time.
Instead, the 25-year-old lefthander was doing his pitching thing for the Boston Red Sox. And what he did was limit the Chicago White Sox to five hits and snap their nine-game American League winning streak 4-1.
"I was cursing under my breath when it started to rain," Curtis said after some early-inning precipitation.
But the wetness turned out to be a blessing in disguise, soaking the artificial turf in White Sox Park just enough to cause the Chicago outfielders some fifth-inning grief.
Orlando Cepeda led off with what looked like a single, but center fielder Ken Henderson slipped chasing the ball and Cepeda limped into second. With two on and two out, John Kennedy also hit what appeared to be a single. This time, right fielder John Jeter lost his footing and by the time he recovered Kennedy had a triple and the Red Sox had two runs.
In the only other American League action, Baltimore trimmed California 8-2. New York at Minnesota was rained out.
In the National League, Pittsburgh edged Los Angeles 5-4, San Diego defeated the Chicago Cubs 4-1, Houston blanked Montreal 6-0, Philadelphia nipped Cincinnati 3-2 in 14 innings and the New York Mets beat Atlanta 7-2. San Francisco and St. Louis were not scheduled.
It was Curtis' first start since April 19 and his first triumph and first complete game of the season. He also pitched his way out of the bullpen and back into the Red Sox' starting rotation.
"Pitching in relief gave me a chance to get some plate sense in the form of spotting the catcher's glove and throwing to it," said Curtis, who

Padres give Cubs
SAN DIEGO (AP) — Three days between starts is a long time to wait for anyone going as well as San Diego righthander Bill Greif.
"I couldn't wait for the game to begin—I was that confident I was going to win," the 23-year-old Texan said Monday night after he smothered the Chicago Cubs with his second two-hitter of the season 4-1.
"He had great stuff and good command of it," conceded Cub Manager
Whitey Lockman after Greif led the Padres out of last place and to their third straight victory. His was San Diego's second two-hitter in a row, following Mike Caldwell's 8-0 victory Sunday over Pittsburgh.
There is a dramatic difference in the Greif of 1973 and the one who had a 5-16 record and a 5.62 ERA as a rookie with the Padres last season.

Shortage threat blamed on big oil com

BY ROBERT LAUX
Post-Crescent staff writer

Congressman Les Aspin says there is good reason to believe that major oil companies created the impending gasoline shortage to drive independents out of business.

The shortage is widely predicted for this summer. The second-term Democrat said it could not be proved now that the oil companies were responsible, "but it's so suspicious." One of the main reasons is the amount of gasoline coming out of the refineries. Last year, he said, domestic refineries were putting out 47 million gallons a week, while this spring they are producing an average of 43 million gallons. That difference, he said, constitutes the expected shortage.

Aspin, a former economics teacher at Marquette University, represents the 1st District in southeastern Wisconsin. He returned to the classroom Monday for two meetings with students at Lawrence University. His comments on the energy crisis were in response to student questions in Prof. Jules La Rocque's economics course.

Aspin said the oil companies probably expect to "have a field day" with the gas shortage. Prices will go up; independent gas stations will go out of business; the oil producers could preserve their tax advantages, and could blame the whole problem on environmentalists.

Oil companies sell their excess gasoline to independent stations, and these stations, in turn, force down the prices of name brand fuel.

"Shell and the other major companies have this figured out," Aspin said. "So let's create a shortage, and supply our own, and then the corner guy, the cutrate guy, White Flash or whatever—he can't be supplied because of the shortage—he's out of business."

The government's energy policies play into the hands of these corporations, he said. For defense reasons, the U.S. is supposed to be self-sufficient in oil production. Quotas on oil imports drive up the price of U.S. supplies, and the government gives tax incentives to companies to discover and exploit domestic oil.

Because of this policy, Aspin said, the oil manufacturers "have been making out like bandits on their taxes and prices." The stated corporate tax rate in this country is 48 per cent, while the effective tax rate for all corporations is about 44 per cent. But the oil producers, he said, are paying 8 per cent taxes on their profits.

"Let's forget about being self-sufficient. Then we can import what we should have done away with imports."

The House vote next month on the Energy Conservation Act, which would allow the oil companies' Aspin said, Chicago would be more economically route favored by oil producers. The Energy Conservation Act, which prohibits pipeline construction in the Midwest and East Coast congress allow the Canada route.

Aspin also spoke to the political science students at Lawrence Longley and Morton S. his role on the House Armed Services Committee. The Department of Defense reacts to him with "toleration to

Vote tonight on funds for Oneida span

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent staff writer

About 20 Appleton businessmen had dinner Monday night with about a third of the Outagamie County Board in a last-ditch effort to convince board members of the merits of county bonding for the Oneida Street high-level bridge in Appleton.

The bridge question is expected to

22-year-old arson charge dismissed

A charge of arson against a former Fox Cities man was dismissed Monday, more than 22 years after the original complaint was filed.

The dismissal, by Judge Nick F. Schaefer in Outagamie County Court Branch 2, ended the mandatory hospital commitment of Vincent Kehoe, 56, who now is voluntarily committed at the Marinette County Hospital.

Kehoe was to stand trial on Sept. 17, 1951 for arson at the home of his father-in-law, Joseph Derus. The incident, just south of Kaukauna in the Town of Buchanan, reportedly took place on March 22, 1951. Kehoe was to appear before the late Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmieg.

Instead of standing trial on the charge, to which Kehoe pleaded innocent by reason of temporary insanity, the defendant was committed to the Central State Hospital at Waupun.

Schmieg ordered the commitment after receiving a medical report that Kehoe suffered from psychosis with paranoid trends.

Police said Kehoe broke a window of the home and sprinkled gas inside a porch and then lit it during an early morning incident. The fire apparently never spread and only minor damage resulted.

Lt. Jack Zuelzke of the sheriff's department, who participated in the investigation of that incident, noted that the arson attempt came after a previous family argument. The defendant, who had been living there with his family, was then staying at an Appleton hotel.

Monday's motion for dismissal was made by Asst. Dist. Atty. William Lundstrom, who noted the date of the complaint, the inability to locate some witnesses and the deaths of others involved with the investigation.

come up for a county board vote tonight. Under state statute, two-thirds vote is required to pass the bonding proposal.

John Conway, spokesman for the pro-bridge group, offered the supervisors what he termed "new facts" about the bridge project.

Conway said the villages' share of county taxes paid for the Tri-Community (Little Chute, Kimberly and Combined Locks) bridge in 1952-54 was about 54 per cent, while Appleton's share of the Oneida bridge would be 58.5 per cent.

He also pointed out that in Green Bay, the city taxpayers were paying for 43.8 per cent of the total cost of the new Mason Street bridge while in Appleton, the city taxpayers would be paying 43.3 per cent. Likewise, Brown County residents outside of Green Bay were paying 22.8 per cent and Outagamie residents outside of Appleton, 23.4 per cent.

Some apparent Oneida bridge construction opponents were among the supervisors present as the invitation to the dinner was extended to all 42 County Board members. The opponents spoke out strongly about the concerns during Conway's presentation, challenging some of his contentions.

Conway said he assumed that the primary concern on the county board was the financing and, in particular, the $894,000 of Appleton's one-third share of the bridge cost that Mayor James Sutherland was asking the county to pick up. The city can legally bond only for $2,606,000, instead of the one-third share, $3.5 million.

Conway said that additional amount wasn't so horrendous when one realized that Appleton taxpayers were paying 44 per cent of the county share for bridge projects in other Outagamie communities.

Conway noted that if all Appleton's 1972 county tax share of $2,556,000 were put toward the bridge cost, it would be paid for in 1.69 years while if the three villages' county tax shares had been put toward the Tri-Community bridge, it would have taken 1.75 years.

Supv. Robert Weyenberg, Kimberly, began raising objections, complaining about paying for the bridge approaches, particularly on the south side to Seymour street. He said he didn't like the county paying for improvements to a city street.

Conway said the state set up the project package and will support it

Area man found guilty of bribery charges

OSHKOSH — A Town of Menasha salesman for Share Corp. of Brookfield was found guilty of two counts of bribery in Winnebago County Court this morning. The suburban Milwaukee chemical supply company also was found guilty of two counts of being a party to the crime of bribery.

The convictions were gained with the help of City of Menasha officials who cooperated with the state Justice Department in its John Doe investigation of kickbacks offered by chemical companies in order to obtain municipal contracts.

The Share Corp. salesman, Edward A. Liermann Jr., 42, was fined a total of $2,000 and put on probation for two years. The first 45 days of the probation period, beginning Monday, will be spent in jail. The sentence calls for him to be transferred from the Winnebago to the Outagamie County jail if arrangements can be made. Liermann would be released during working hours.

Liermann, 1550 Acorn Court, Town of Menasha, pleaded no-contest to the two bribery counts as agreed to in a stipulation worked out with the state in pretrial conferences. Share Corp., through its president, Paul des Jardins, also pleaded no-contest to the two felony counts of being a party to

Fox Cities get pollution blame

GREEN BAY—The legal counsel for the Green Bay Metropolitan Sewerage District charged that communities and industries on the Fox River south of here are threatening the success of the district's $65 million plant by failing to act on their own pollution problems.

Meyer Cohen, speaking at a Paper Week luncheon Monday, said, "I refer to the fact that unless our efforts are matched by the upriver cities, the river will continue to flow to us in a highly polluted state."

"It is a disturbing and frustrating situation. It is intolerable for us to spend all this money and not get the results we deserve because of the inaction of our neighbors to the south."

Cohen referred specifically to De Pere, Appleton, Neenah and Menasha. The Metropolitan Sewerage District's new plant is expected to be in operation in 1975 and is designed to meet the 90 per cent treatment load required by the state Department of Natural Resources. Eighty per cent of the plant's cost will be paid through state and federal grants, with two industries, Charmin Paper and American Can, paying one-third of the remaining 20 per cent.

The two industries will then pay one-half of the operating cost.

Cohen said he thought that with the new plant they would be able to show actual improvement in the river, but he said, "We won't be able to judge the real effects of our efforts because the river is coming to us polluted." Referring to the Fox Cities communities, Cohen said, "There seems to be a genuine desire on the part of their leaders to move forward, but I continue to read of one delay after another."

Cohen said he had hoped that there would have been sewage plant construction in Neenah-Menasha by this spring. He noted that the Green Bay Metropolitan Sewerage District already had contracted for more money than the rest of the Valley combined. "We must continue to urge the state and federal regulatory agencies to exert every possible pressure and to remove the roadblocks and get the work started."

Shredder site challenged again

Appleton Ald. William Errington (15th) has filed another petition with Circuit Court in an attempt to prevent the city from selling to Outagamie County a solid waste shredding site in the Northeast Industrial Park. The site is in his ward.

Judge Gordon Myse late last month quashed Errington's initial petition after arguments by the city attorney that it failed to allege the sale was illegal or to prove that it would create a nuisance and cause irreparable injury to Errington. Myse, in effect, ordered a fresh start on the suit.

The new complaint, filed through new legal counsel by Errington, challenges that the city didn't follow all procedures required by law in approving the land sale.

The new court date will be 9 a.m. Thursday when Myse will be asked to decide whether a temporary injunction should be issued against the city restraining it from completing the land sale until the ultimate court decision is made on the lawsuit.

The City Council voted in April 24 and the County Board followed suit the next day.

Although Outagamie County's Emergency Employment Act funds will run out by the end of November, most of the 74 persons still working under the federal assistance program will be retained, County Executive Alvin E. Woehler said today.

Funding under the two-year-old federal act has expired. Outagamie County got its final allotment, $376,400, on March 15, Woehler said.

Phaseout of the EEA program at the county level began several months ago. As many as 88 persons had been employed in public service jobs in the county under the program, which provided 90 per cent outside funding. Woehler said he will call a meeting of his EEA administration committee to work out a plan to both operate and phase out the program between the end of November.

Most of the municipalities and public agencies that hired unemployed and underemployed persons under EEA funding have said they will employ the employees under local pay scales. At this point, only two park workers will not be kept, but the county, directly employed 24 EEA persons, not yet determined how many will be placed solely on the county payroll.

Catholic board steps

BY MAIJA PENIKIS
Post-Crescent staff writer

It has cost time and effort, but Appleton Area Catholic Board of Education, concluding its third year of operations, continues to move forward in its effort to improve and equalize parochial education in the city.

More progress was made Monday when the board approved further of a Catholic junior high school concept and discussed the possibility of uniform tuition schedule.

Only recently, under the leadership of Donald Rine, outgoing president, the board approved uniform salary schedule for the participating schools, in an effort to rid of some of the parochialism which exists in some parishes and make Catholic community.

Shortly before that, the board assumed the operation of the Appleton Catholic Education Council (ACEC) which provides religious education programs for youths not attending Catholic schools.

A salary scale for religious coordinators is to be studied next.

Monday's meeting dealt primarily with the junior high concept, which has been discussed for about 18 months.

The idea stemmed from a number of things: The fact that the Catholic grammar schools were losing children to public junior high schools in grade six, the thought that it might be wise to have the same type system of education (6-3-3) for a more uniform curriculum, and the fact that the decline in enrollments at Xavier School might make it possible to accommodate the junior high students.

The idea has been tossed back and forth by board members after Whitehead, chairman of the committee, presented statistics on the problems.

The thinking has been that the Catholic junior high school might be the departure of students for parochial schools. It also has been suggested that the students then would choose to go to Xavier, which has been experiencing a loss in enrollment in the past few years.

However, Monday's meeting brought forth more reasons from the members why the idea of a junior would house students from age 12 and 13 through 18 might present psychological problems, a nun-principal felt.

The possibility that if the junior high became a reality, it would result in a loss of students and revenue to the local parishes also was raised. This would leave the facilities empty, a situation a number of the parishes already have faced each year.
Distance, too, was discussed as a possible problem. The board felt that parents might object to sending their seventh and eighth graders across town, when a school building might be available in the neighborhood.

The tuition also could cause difficulties, some felt, since the Catholic elementary schools do not charge nearly as much tuition as Xavier and the question of how much it would cost to send a child to a Xavier junior high was high on the list of priorities.
According to Whitehead, the two main areas of study would be the physical plant—how many it could accommodate—and the tuition cost.
“As far as taking away students from the parish schools goes, the study shows that we are losing them anyway to the public schools. That is the reason this subject came up at all,” Whitehead pointed out.

Bridge . . .

With one-third of the cost only if the approaches are included.
Weyenberg then noted that there were several bridge opponents present and added “I’m debating it, and someone’s got to convince me that it’s for the best.”
Supv. Sylvester Lenz, Kimberly, challenged the suggestion that Appleton taxpayers pay more, saying all property owners in the county pay their share. He isn’t opposed to the Oneida bridge.

He did indicate, however, that the idea which he once felt would get strong backing, may be weakening. A parish questionnaire, completed recently by St. Bernard, shows that a little less than 50 per cent of those who answered favored the concept.
However, the board felt that once the study was completed, the question of whether there is need for a junior high would be decided.
“It doesn’t matter what the study shows; at least then we will know the answer,” Rine said.

Weyenberg said a bridge shouldn’t be built until the Little Lake Butte des Morts bridge is built and its effect on traffic patterns established. Conway countered that the Oneida bridge would be used primarily by people wanting to go to downtown Appleton, and he emphasized the need for a strong downtown.

The next item on the agenda was the tuition rate. William Otto, who was elected president for the coming school year, has completed a portion of the study which shows that the tuition varies greatly from school to school.

“I feel sure we could get Penney’s and Sears to reconsider their plans to move out of the downtown,” he said, terming the bridge “preventative medicine” and the financing for it “seed money” to keep the downtown strong.

It indicates that it goes from $20 per child per year to $60 for the first child and $130 maximum per family.

Weyenberg questioned whether the bridge would be the answer to the strong downtown. Conway indicated it wasn’t the total answer.
Supv. George Kroes, county highway committee chairman, said he believed it was “very unfair” to compare Green Bay and Appleton bridges because the Green Bay bridge would be used more by county residents. Kroes, who represents the Town of Vandenberg and part of the Town of Grand Chute, said his constituents wouldn’t use the Oneida bridge.

Another study on shared teachers in specialized areas, one by the principals of the grade schools, won approval from the board and will be incorporated in the coming year in a number of the schools.

Conway said use couldn’t be the measure, noting that half the Little Lake Butte des Morts bridge users will be Outagamie residents—who are paying nothing locally for it.

Included in the list are physical education instructors, foreign language teachers and in the future, music instructors.

Supv. Ted LaPin, Appleton, said the Oneida bridge will bring Calumet County shoppers into Appleton. “This is the charming thing” about the bridge, he added.

Officers for the next school year, elected at the meeting, will be Otto, representing St. Pius; the Rev. Gerald Falk, St. Thomas More, vice president; James Belling, St. Bernadette, treasurer, and Mrs. Barbara Hussin, St. Mary, secretary.

Supvs. Harold Miller, Town of Grand Chute, and Gene Retzlaff, Village of Hortonville, wondered if the city could raise its full share in another way. They were told it legally could not.

Fire damage

A bed was destroyed and extensive heat and smoke damage reported after a fire at the Rick Willer residence, 1321 N. Appleton St., about 5:45 p.m. Monday. Firemen had been called to the home to stand by while repairs started up a flooded furnace, but flames started up through a cold air duct and ignited lint in the duct, spreading the fire into an upstairs bedroom. The fire was controlled within three minutes. No damage estimate was given. (Post-Crescent photo) bribery. The firm was fined a total of $2,000.

In addition, Share paid $6,000 for the costs and disbursements of a public nuisance action against the firm. The action prohibits the firm or any of its employees from ever “transferring, or promising to transfer to any public employee or officer in the State of Wisconsin, any property, including . . . United States currency, United States Savings Bonds, ‘premiums,’ ‘advertising novelties’ and-or ‘gifts’ . . .” These refer to kickbacks given to public employees for purchasing chemicals and solvents for municipal use.
After court testimony from a state agent, county Judge James V. Sitter found the two parties guilty and imposed the sentences that previously were negotiated.
This morning’s court testimony revealed that Alfred Voelker, bookkeeper for the City of Menasha garage, was instrumental in providing information that led to the John Doe investigation and today’s convictions.
State Agent Donald A. Schmidt testified that Voelker first met Liermann during the week of Oct. 16, 1972, at the city garage. Voelker was offered a 10 per cent kickback on gross purchases made by the city from Share Corp. Voelker contacted Menasha Mayor James Adams, who informed the state attorney general’s office of the attempted bribe.
In the successful attempt to gain evidence of the kickback practice, Voelker again met with Liermann on Nov. 14 at the Menasha Hotel. A $720 order for chemicals was placed. On Nov. 29, Voelker received $72 in cash and checks—10 per cent of the purchase price. A $510 order for pellet de-icer was placed on Dec. 5 and Voelker received $51 in cash at the city garage.
Voelker testified about these payments at the first session of the Oshkosh John Doe probe on Jan. 18. That launched a statewide probe, centered in Judge William E. Crane’s Circuit Court here. The investigation, which is continuing, has resulted in fines and sentences being imposed on an Illinois chemical firm and several the county board’s Judicial and Enforcement Committee which was told by County Executive Alvin E. Woehler that the sheriff’s department now is buying its own fuel.

The contract with the county highway department expired recently and was not renewed. Under the contract, the sheriff’s department was buying its gasoline for 13.3 cents a gallon. Government agencies are exempt from gasoline taxes.
Spice said local distributors apparently do not want to enter into fuel supply contracts now. He said he contacted four distributors and took the lowest price quotation for the 7,800 gallon fill this week. The fuel now costs 16.5 cents a gallon.

Spice told the committee he may run over his gasoline budget. Nearly 8,000 gallons of gasoline a month is needed for the county squad cars. Spice said he probably will have to contact distributors each month to get the best fuel deal until contracts become available.

He said he will post guidelines to be followed in an attempt to reduce fuel consumption. Engines are not to be idled except at emergency scenes, where they must be left running or the red lights will drain the battery.

Spice’s guidelines also will stress fuel economy through proper driving habits.
But police patrols cannot be reduced, Spice said. Patrol miles, especially on state and federal highways, will soon increase, he explained.

Lebanese jets again fly against guerrillas

By HARRY DUNPHY
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Lebanese air force jets kept up a steady attack on Palestinian guerrilla positions near the Beirut airport today as government and Palestinian leaders struggled to halt fighting that broke out again Monday night.

Informed sources said President Suleiman Franjeh and guerrilla leader Yasir Arafat had agreed to a one-hour ceasefire to give Arafat a chance to bring his forces under control. But heavy gunfire could still be heard, and there were strong indications that Arafat and his associates had lost control of significant elements of the guerrillas.

The army reported a guerrilla attack on the airport had been repulsed. The airport, normally one of the busiest crossroads in the Middle East, was reported closed because of shell craters on the runways.

Premier Amin Hafez submitted his resignation to Franjeh after only 19 days in office, reportedly because the air force jets had been ordered into action against the guerrillas.

One report said the president had not decided whether to accept the resignation.

As the army and the guerrillas battled on the outskirts of the capital with artillery, tank cannon and small arms, Franjeh ordered the air force to keep planes up constantly.

The government declared a state of emergency, reimposed an around-the-clock curfew and closed the airport.

An army communique said the Palestinians opened fire with rockets and mortars shortly before midnight on army positions in Bir Hassan, on the south side of Beirut. It said "fire was concentrated particularly on the airport and the army combat school on the airport road" and three soldiers were wounded.

Flares and tracers lit the night sky, and the government radio advised Beirut residents to turn out their lights.

Machine gun, tank cannon and mortar fire could be heard from time to time during the night, and a rocket exploded in the city, wounding seven persons.

Two Hawker Hunter jets began attacking the guerrillas at dawn, twisting and diving over refugee camps near the airport and making repeated low-level passes. The fighters fired rockets and cannon shells at positions close to the Bourj el Barajneh camp and a resident nearby said guerrillas in both that camp and the Shatilu camp threw up heavy anti-aircraft fire.

Heavy casualties were reported among the guerrillas, and ambulances raced in an out of the area.

The fighting spread to a refugee camp on the eastern edge of the capital.

Beirut Radio said Hafez submitted his resignation to Franjeh after a coexistence agreement he helped negotiate with the guerrillas Monday broke down in less than 24 hours.

Hafez was named premier April 25 after the Israeli raid into Beirut forced the previous government to bow out. His resignation put all power in the hands of Franjeh and the army commander, Gen. Iskander Ghanem.

Relations between the Lebanese government and the Palestinians have been strained for years because the Lebanese army, unlike the Syrian and Jordanian armies, has been unable to cut off guerrilla operations against Israel that provoke retaliatory Israeli raids into Lebanon.

In the wake of the Israeli raid on Beirut, security forces began arresting guerrillas found carrying arms or explosives, and the Palestinians last week kidnaped two army corporals as hostages for the release of eight guerrillas. When army tanks and armored cars pulled up to the refugee camp where they were held last Wednesday, fighting broke out and continued until mediators from other Arab nations negotiated a cease-fire last Friday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon asked Congress today to consolidate disaster activities in a single federal agency that would speed aid to victims while forcing the states to assume more responsibility in recovery from floods, earthquakes and other natural catastrophes.

"This bill would place greater emphasis on protecting people and property against the effects of disasters before they occur," Nixon said.

"While we cannot fully control the occurrence and the impact of disasters, we must do all we can to prepare for them, to prevent them, and to mitigate and remedy their effects."

The proposed Disaster Preparedness and Assistance Act is designed to standardize benefits for disaster victims; improve execution of the assistance program; prevent the misuse of benefits; strengthen preventive measures to minimize future losses, and increase the role of state and local governments in implementing the disaster program.

The President said the act "represents a comprehensive new approach to a very crucial problem." To ease the transition to the new system, if adopted, he proposed that during its first year of operation a special federal grant of $250,000 be provided to help states help it increase its disaster and assistance capabilities.

Nixon noted that there were 48 disasters in 1972, including the storm Agnes, and that "spring floods and drought brought tragedy to many parts of the country."

Besides centralizing disaster activities in the Department of Housing and Urban Development, the act would establish a single fund for all disaster losses, the Disaster Fund "for disaster assistance such as emergency housing and emergency housing."

It also will:

- Transfer from the Department of Housing and Urban Development to the Disaster Fund the temporary housing and such recovery programs as removal, repair and replacement of facilities, streets, bridges and highways.
- Authorize federal states of up to 75 percent of the cost of repair and replacement of public facilities and services.
- Expand eligible for disaster relief public recreation, including public and private nonprofit facilities, emergency, medical and care facilities.

Connally apparently not yet taking cabinet job

WASHINGTON (AP) — A meeting between President Nixon and Republican-convert John B. Connally has not returned Connally to the Nixon Cabinet. At least at this time.

Nixon apparently sounded out the former secretary of the Treasury about taking a new assignment during a session Monday at the Florida White House in Key Biscayne.

But Connally was understood to have no interest in the only Cabinet-level post, now open, that of Secretary of Defense.

If the former Texas governor does rejoin the administration he is expected to serve only on an interim or a part-time basis.

Nixon and Connally, close both personally and politically, met for more than two hours shortly before Nixon left Florida for Washington after a long weekend stay. The new White House staff chief, Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., participated in part of the meeting.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said only that Nixon and his visitor discussed "matters in general, including some of the President's thinking about ongoing operations of government."

Ziegler had said earlier the President is devoting much of his attention to restructuring his White House staff, shattered at the top by the Watergate-related resignations last week of Chief of Staff H.R. Haldeman and domestic policy coordinator John D. Ehrlichman.

When Connally cancelled a speech in San Antonio and flew to Nixon's Florida home, rumors abounded that he would be asked to serve as Secretary of Defense, the job being vacated by Elliot L. Richardson, who has been nominated to be Attorney General.

Ziegler last Friday described David

Packard, a former Pentagon official and millionaire California industrialist, as the leading candidate for the job. However, there are indications Packard has declined the assignment.

Connally, who was secretary of the Navy in the Kennedy administration, last week announced his switch to the Republican party, severing lifelong ties with the conservative wing of the Democratic Party in Texas. He talked to Nixon by telephone before making the announcement.

Monday's session at Key Biscayne was the first known meeting between Connally and Nixon since the Watergate scandal began occupying most of the President's time.

Another close Nixon friend, board chairman Hobart Lewis of the Reader's Digest, also turned up Monday at the President's Florida compound and flew to Washington aboard Air Force 1.

Ziegler said Nixon and Lewis had no opportunity to meet prior to the flight. The magazine magnate's arrival in Florida had not been announced but reporters recognized him as he prepared to join Nixon on the Presidential jet.

coup plans. Kennedy is not personally linked to the events in the study.

The 42-year-old Ellsberg and Anthony J. Russo, 36, are charged with espionage, conspiracy and theft for copying the Pentagon papers in 1969. Ellsberg has admitted leaking them later to the news media.

Hunt said the forging of cables was "simple" except for one hitch—the FBI could not get him a typewriter with the same typeface used for such cables.

"I was not satisfied with the results," said Hunt. "I showed them to Colson. He seemed to like them, and I said, 'These will never stand any kind of scrutiny.' I said, 'Let's be very sure about that.' They could never be published, because after the Alger Hiss case, everyone was typewriter conscious."

Thus, Hunt said, it was decided anyone shown the cables would get a "fast brush" viewing, "which I began to believe was the purpose Mr. Colson had in mind."

Hunt said he soon received a call saying a newsmen, Bill Lambert of Time-Life, would be sent over to see the cables. Hunt said that when Lambert arrived he was shown the forgeries.

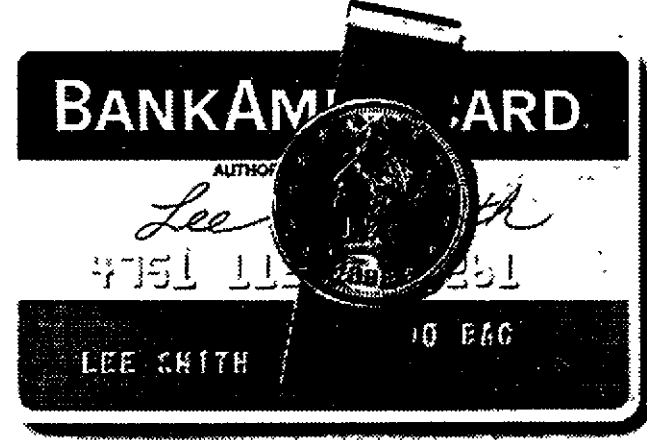

"Mr. Lambert was quite exultant over the find," Hunt testified. But Hunt said that, while he permitted Lambert to copy the text of the forgeries, he would not allow the newsmen to take copies.

Insisting that all discoveries in his probe of White House and Watergate links to the trial be made public, Byrne also released a lengthy affidavit from former White House aide Egil Krogh, who verified that he headed the White House unit assigned to undercover work on the Pentagon papers leak to news media.

Krogh admitted he approved plans to burglarize the office of Ellsberg's psychiatrist and said he made the decision sometime after a meeting with President Nixon.

He said that at that meeting Nixon had stressed the importance of plugging leaks of classified data to news media. He did not say that the President had knowledge of the burglary plan by Hunt and G. Gordon Liddy.

But Krogh did say that the formation of the special White House unit, known as "the plumbers" was personally approved by the late director of the FBI, J. Edgar Hoover.

How to save on cheese and eggs

To curb the soaring cost of cheese, President Nixon has ordered a 50 per cent increase in imports of this popular food between now and July 31. This will add a towering 64 million extra pounds to our normal annual import quota of 128 million pounds in the short span of three months, raise the total of cheese imports to 192 million pounds in '73 alone.

As a result, says John T. Dunlop, director of the Cost of Living Council, "We are hopeful...that rising cheese prices will at least level off."

Note that modest statement: "at least level off." For what that remark is shouting to you is that the most you can hope for is a slowdown in the rise in cheese prices—and in overall food prices from a gallop to a trot in the foreseeable future.

It's utterly unrealistic to grumble about forcing the cost of your market-basket back to where it was a few months ago; it won't and can't happen.

Too late to halt surge

It's downright nonsense even to talk in terms of halting the rise in living costs across the board. We'll be lucky when we get the annual rise back into the 3 to 4 per cent range.

We've already forfeited the chance for that in 1973. Too much inflation has been built into our price structure in these first five months to permit the '73 rate of rise to return to the 3 per cent level—much less to the 2 1/2 per cent target which the President set for this year.

So what do YOU, a typical city family, do about it?

What you do is try to beat the cost of living on your own. What you do is find and use every rule you can to offset increases in every area—food, shelter, clothing, medical care, personal care, goods and services of all kinds.

That's what I am doing—learning the rules, collecting them and passing them on to you.

For instance, cheese—which compared to steaks and to chops, offers a lot of nutrition for relatively little money.

Stick to the less expensive domestic cheeses vs. the foreign imports—which, incidentally, have been pushed up in price merely by the devaluations of the U.S. dollar.

Buy grating cheese in blocks, grate it yourself and save 50 per cent that way alone.

Buy cheddar in blocks also and slice it as you need it. You'll save at least 10 cents a pound.

Don't buy fancy packages

Buy cheese in plain packages vs. fancy containers. Gift-wrapped packages of cheese are often priced out of sight. Remember this at Christmas when you are tempted to splurge on tinsel-wrapped cheese wedges.

Prepare your own cheese dips, using the basic cheese plus whatever flavoring you prefer. You'll save, and your dip probably will be better-tasting than the prepared type.

Avoid cheese from pressurized cans. Obviously you pay plenty for this type of package.

And while you're in the dairy section of the supermarket, consider milk—another good source of protein—and how to get bargains in it.

If your family drinks a lot of milk, buy it in gallon containers. This size is always cheaper than by the quart.

If you are using regular milk for cooking, use nonfat dry milk and canned evaporated milk. And if you are using skim milk, make it from dry milk at half the cost. (Be quiet about it and see if your family notices; I'll wager they won't.)

If your family agrees, mix non-fat dry milk half and half with fresh and thereby cut your milk bill one-third. (Again, see whether your family notices the difference.)

Buy cream according to the degree of richness you actually need—for adding to cereals or fruit, for cooking, for whipping. The price is directly related to the fat content.

Finally, eggs are certainly a low-cost meat substitute and a protein bargain.

Don't waste money buying first-grade eggs when lower-grade will be just as good for your purposes. You need Grade AA or Grade A eggs only if you are poaching, boiling or frying. Grades B and C are good for scrambling, for general cooking and for use in cakes and pies.

Don't pay more for white eggs. Brown eggs have the same nutritional value and you won't detect any difference in taste.

Simple, aren't they? But did you know all these rules for getting the most nutritional value in cheese, milk and eggs for the fewest dollars?

LU to have lyric tenor

Lyric tenor Peter Schreier, one of the most sought-after tenors in Europe today, will be at Lawrence University, Thursday, May 17.

Schreier's appearance will be the final attraction of the 1972-73 Lawrence Artist Series, which this year has brought to Fox Valley audiences the Toulouse Chamber Orchestra, pianist Alicia De Larrocha and the Milwaukee Symphony Orchestra.

Tickets are still available for Schreier's concert, which will be at 8 p.m. May 17 at the Lawrence Memorial Chapel.

Schreier, a native of East Germany, made his debut at the Metropolitan Opera in New York in 1968, and was re-engaged for subsequent roles at the Met.

A favorite with audiences for his interpretations of Mozart roles, Schreier was under contract to the State Opera in Dresden, Germany, from 1954-63, when he was hired by the German State Opera in East Berlin. He still performs as a guest artist regularly.

Hailed as a distinctive and sensitive singer of German lieder, Schreier has been a frequent performer at Europe's leading music festivals, such as Salzburg and Vienna.

Van Bostel's performance overshadowed some excellent efforts by other bowlers last night as four counts over the 900 mark were registered and new leaders were posted in two of the four divisions.

Dave Van Daalwyk, Appleton, who went into first place in Class A on April 24, only to be knocked out on May 2 by Larry Connell of Appleton, came back strong last night with a 951 total to regain the lead. This was the sixth time Van Daalwyk has participated in the Bowl-O-Rama this year.

Dave left little doubt about what he came to do last night as he opened with a 236 game. He followed with a 194 and then rallied with a 231 and finished with 210 for an 871 scratch.

Frank Yingling, who serves as administrative assistant to the director of public works for the city of Appleton, also dented the 900 club Monday as he jolted a 910. Frank slammed 838 scratch to go with 72 pins of handicap for the high count.

"I had a real steady night," Frank said. "My hot game was the third when I had 237 scratch. I just kept concentrating and reaching out there." Frank had strikes in eight out of the first nine frames in his third game. He had a 624 scratch series for the first three lines.

Haertl slams 921 Terry Haertl, Appleton, socked a 921 to take over second place in men's Class B. Terry missed taking over the lead by just six pins as Gene Freier maintained his lead with a 926 count.

Terry had 809 scratch with games of 199, 191, 215 and 204. Other leading performances in Class B included 881 totals by Albert Schroeder of Appleton and Vern Manske of Pine River.

The other new leader last night was Marilyn Seefeld, New London, who powered an unbelievable 934 in two runs while Greif blanked the Cubs until Jose Cardenal's eighth-inning homer.

A strategic move by Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson backfired against the Reds. With two out in the 14th inning, Philadelphia's Greg Luzinski singled, Bill Robinson reached on an error by third baseman Bill Plummer—normally a catcher—and the runners moved up on a passed ball.

Anderson ordered an intentional pass to rookie Mike Rogodzinski, but reliever Pedro Borbon also walked Mike Ryan on a 3-2 pitch to force in the winning run. The Phillies' other two runs also were unearned, coming on Robinson's single, a three-base error by shortstop Dave Concepcion and Terry Harmon's single.

The Mets finally scored some runs for Tom Seaver—six in the eighth inning—and ended a five-game skid by beating Atlanta. Singles by Wayne Garrett and Rusty Staub chased Pat Dobson and Ed Kranepool greeted ex-teammate Danny Frisella with a game-tying double.

Frisella walked Bud Harrelson with the bases loaded to force in the lead run. Two more crossed on a throwing error and ex-Brave Felix Millan rapped his second run-scoring single of the game.

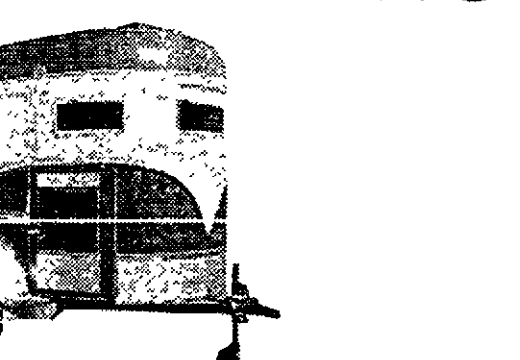

Baltimore scored five unearned runs in defeating Oakland behind Doyle Alexander's five-hit pitching. The big hit was a two-run single by Boog Powell as the Orioles tied idle Detroit for first place in the AL East.

Powell, who has been treating a sore right shoulder with diathermy and stretching exercises, said the injury has restricted his swing and cut down on his power.

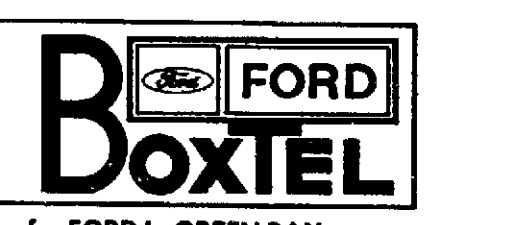

But then, recalling his broken-bat single, he said: "When you're hot, you're hot."

Instant wealth

Colts sign Bert Jones

BALTIMORE (AP) — Bert Jones assured himself of instant wealth by signing a pro football contract Monday—and the Baltimore Colts feel they still got a bargain.

"Not too often in a career do you come up with a great quarterback like this coming out of college," General Manager Joe Thomas said after the Louisiana State record-breaker agreed to a multi-year pact with the rebuilding Colts.

Thomas declined to reveal how much of owner Robert Irsay's money he spent to land the National Football League's No. 2 draft pick of 1973, but observed: "The figure was not out of bounds, but when you get a good commodity in any walk of life, you expect to pay for it."

Thomas also expressed appreciation of the way the negotiations with Jones were handled, especially the absence of an agent.

"It irritates me," Thomas said, "when someone comes in off the street, so to speak, and takes 10 to 15 per cent of a player's money without even knowing what he's worth. It was refreshing the way these talks went."

Joining Jones in the negotiations were his father, Dub Jones, the former Cleveland Browns' running back-receiver, and an attorney friend from Houston.

"I like to see someone have legal counsel, and I know someone will get a small fee for handling the contract," Thomas said. "But Bert will get almost all of the money. That's the way it should be."

met Cleveland in the 1964 NFL championship game, a contest won by the Browns 27-0.

Unitas, the Colts' quarterback for 17 seasons, was ordered benched by Thomas after the fifth game last year and then was traded to the San Diego Chargers at the end of the season.

Young Marty Domres, described by Thomas last season as Baltimore's "quarterback of the future," is expected to face a stiff challenge from Jones in the not-too-distant future.

"I'm a football player, and a competitor," Jones said. "I'll do my best, and if that's good enough to play, I will."

Thomas ranked the passing arm of Jones with those of Joe Namath and Terry Bradshaw as "three of the finest ever to come out of college."

At LSU, Jones broke the passing records of former pro star Y.A. Tittle. He completed 220 of 418 passes for 3,255 yards and 28 touchdowns.

"Since Daddy was a player and a coach," young Jones said, "the NFL has been the center of my life."

He admitted to being a fan of the Colts, and especially of quarterback Johnny Unitas, at least until Baltimore

Little League female star from

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — When the Ypsilanti Little League plays its scheduled season opener today, 12-year-old Carolyn King won't be on the field.

Carolyn's bid to become the first girl to crack the roster of a Ypsilanti Little League team was halted late Monday when the league's managers, in an 11th-hour private meeting, decided to drop her from the league.

"We decided to drop Carolyn from the roster but to continue to fight in court to have her reinstated," said Bob Taylor, vice president of the group.

The Little League, with national headquarters in Williamsport, Pa., has a rule banning girls.

"She's very good, that's the crime of the whole thing," Taylor said. "If she was a mediocre player you could say forget it, but she puts most 11 and 12-year-olds to shame."

A common complaint about the Little League program is that the adults who

Pointers win

STEVENS POINT, Wis. (AP) — A scoring error in Saturday's Wisconsin State University Conference track meet has been found and corrected, giving Stevens Point the conference title instead of a tie with La Crosse, Point Athletic Director Bob Krueger said Monday.

The error in scoring the triple jump gave the Pointers one less point than they deserved, leaving them tied with the Indians with 68 points, Krueger said.

The Pointers' Ron LaFond was recorded as leaping 43-feet-4½, good for fifth place. But that was only his second best jump of the day, Conference Athletic Commissioner Max Sparger said.

Best jump

His best jump was good enough for fourth place, ahead of Dale Kioet of Oshkosh.

Sparger said the conference games committee had to make the decision on what to do about the error.

"We have been notified that they have polled the games committee and the decision was unanimous that the error must be corrected," Krueger said. "It was a human error."

Teacher retiring after 47 years honored at reception at Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE—Messages from Gov. Patrick J. Lucey and the Division for Handicapped Children of the Department of Public Instruction commending Miss Verna Schoepke were read Sunday afternoon at a reception in her honor.

She will retire at the end of this school year after 47 years of teaching, with the past 24 years as special education teacher in the Clintonville school system.

The reception opened with a short program planned by parents of children who had been pupils of Miss Schoepke throughout the years. Mrs. Violet Viltanen introduced Mayor Frank Sinkewicz, who expressed appreciation to Miss Schoepke for her many years of service, and extending greetings on behalf of the city.

Tony Buhr, Marion, president of the Waupaca County Association for Retarded Children, presented Miss Schoepke with a corsage, and read the letter to Miss Schoepke from Gov. Lucey.

"It has been called to my attention that you will be retiring this year as a special education teacher in the Clintonville Public Schools and that of your 47 years of teaching, 24 were spent at the Clintonville Public Schools.

"Your fellow American citizens and I join in commending and congratulating you on a most successful and truly inspiring teaching career.

"May the future reward you abundantly for the kindness, patience, and sympathetic understanding which you extended and shared so liberally with so many for so many years."

O. Reed Newton, elementary supervisor, read a letter from John W. Melcher, administrator, and Patrick L. Pfieger and Mrs. Alverna Robinson.

special education supervisors of the Division for Handicapped Children of the Department of Public Instruction.

It said, in part:

"The people of the Clintonville area realize, as we do, your many years of serving handicapped children in such an exemplary manner. Many of the good ideas you had in teaching these children have been passed on to other teachers, thus causing other programs to be that much better.

Newton added that although he only has worked with Miss Schoepke four years, he has come to appreciate her great ability to teach children and that he thought her outstanding ability is that she sees each child has some worth and some ability and is able to convince that child of his or her ability.

Retired Supt. Rawson reviewed some of the early days of special education, pointing out that Miss Schoepke was a pioneer in this type of work. (Miss Schoepke was chosen by Rawson to teach the first special education class started here in 1949).

He said that she has left a fondness for her, these children will never forget ... and this goes for the rest of us. "Along with it, she and I have been grateful for several things—the parents' group that gave tremendous support, and another thing, if you went into her room and saw the children, it was the courtesy these people have. We will not forget you ... thank you for many years of wonderful work."

Matt Dahm, speaking as a parent of one who attended Miss Schoepke's class, said, "The parents think very highly of Miss Schoepke. The Lord was good to send us a teacher like her, and God Bless You."

Miss Schoepke responded briefly.

Many people came during the afternoon to extend wishes to Miss Schoepke and to visit informally during the reception hours at the junior high school cafeteria.

Area man found guilty of bribery charges

OSHKOSH — A Town of Menasha salesman for Share Corp. of Brookfield was found guilty of two counts of bribery in Winnebago County Court this morning. The suburban Milwaukee chemical supply company also was found guilty of two counts of being a party to the crime of bribery.

The convictions were gained with the help of City of Menasha officials who cooperated with the state Justice Department in its John Doe investigation of kickbacks offered by chemical companies in order to obtain municipal contracts.

The Share Corp. salesman, Edward A. Liermann Jr., 42, was fined a total of $2,000 and put on probation for two years. The first 45 days of the probation period, beginning Monday, will be spent in jail. The sentence calls for him to be transferred from the Winnebago to the Outagamie County jail if arrangements can be made. Liermann would be released during working hours.

Liermann, 1550 Acorn Court, Town of Menasha, pleaded no-contest to the two bribery counts as agreed to in a stipulation worked out with the state in pretrial conferences. Share Corp., through its president, Paul des Jardins, also pleaded no-contest to the two felony counts of being a party to bribery. The firm was fined a total of $2,000.

In addition, Share paid $6,000 for the costs and disbursements of a public nuisance action against the firm. The action prohibits the firm or any of its employees from ever "transferring, or promising to transfer to any public employe or officer in the State of Wisconsin, any property, including ...

United States currency, United States Savings Bonds, 'premiums,' 'advertising novelties' and-or 'gifts' ... "These refer to kickbacks given to public employes for purchasing chemicals and solvents for municipal use.

After court testimony from a state agent, county Judge James V. Sitter found the two parties guilty and imposed the sentences that previously were negotiated.

In a written statement issued this morning by Share Corp. Atty. Bruce O'Neill, it was announced, "In no way does Share or any of its agents authorize or condone these acts or any acts of bribery." He said Liermann violated company policy and the company had no knowledge of the bribery, but Share would accept full responsibility for the acts.

"Share will retain the services of Edward Liermann," the statement said. "Severe personal problems led to this isolated incident in Menasha. Share is confident he will perform with complete integrity in the future."

The statement said Share, a two-year-old company, openly has given premiums "when necessary to compete with over 20 other companies which had long established the practice. Share in no way believed the practice to be illegal nor does it believe any but the smallest minority of public officials were ever influenced by the small premiums given.

"Nonetheless Share has ceased giving premiums to public officials. Share now realizes that this practice can be abused. Share sincerely hopes this policy also is adopted by our competitors, thereby eliminating this practice in Wisconsin."

Houston castoff had an average and has 7 hits in 37 innings, going the route in two runs with a single and double to help Greif, 2-2, win on a night when Cub right-handers Rick Reuschel, 2-2, and Ray Burris combined for 14 strikeouts.

Nate Colbert hit singles to start two rallies and stole two bases.

Greif said part of the reason for his new-found success is a change of attitude and another factor is the addition of a pitcher. He began working on a knuckle-curve in spring training after being ordered to discard it when he turned pro in the Houston farm system.

"I'm sure I'll have a bad game once in a while," he says now. "But I know I have good stuff and I think what's happening now is for real."

Weaver keeps faith in Boog, Earl

BALTIMORE (AP) — Boog Powell and Earl Williams are two heavyweights of the Baltimore Orioles who are swinging with light-weight batting averages so far this season.

But Manager Earl Weaver has no plans to bench his two long ball hitters. "Those guys can still hit home runs," Weaver said. "And since homers usually come in bunches, one or the other might hit six in 10 days and win us some games."

Neither hit the long ball Monday night, but each contributed a single and combined to drive in three runs as the Orioles topped the Oakland Athletics 82 with the help of five unearned runs.

Powell, whose listed weight of 250 may be an understatement is hitting .188—which is a bit below par even for Baltimore's celebrated slow starter.

Williams, a 215-pounder who joined the Orioles this season, also has a touch of the malady and is struggling at .186.

Still, Williams leads to club with 15 runs batted in, and Powell is the runner-up with 11. And Williams, Weaver recalls, hit his five homers during one six-game span.

Williams singled home a run in the first inning off loser Rollie Fingers, 0-2, with what Weaver described as "probably his worst swing of the game."

In the second, when an error by Fingers led to three unearned runs, Powell drove in two runs with a single which the Baltimore first baseman said caused a "compound fracture" of his bat.

NHL chief bars cameramen

MONTREAL (AP) — Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, said Monday that cameramen will not be permitted inside the winners' dressing room at the conclusion of the Stanley Cup finals.

Campbell said in an interview that scenes from the victors' dressing room did little more than "glorify alcohol, the No. 1 poison in the country."

"As long as I'm president, I'm not going to condone anything that downgrades the image of hockey and we've always had a bad result with this kind of thing."

"It's a cheap, cheap show. Celebrations of this kind have no place in hockey."

The Chicago Black Hawks play the Montreal Canadiens here tonight in the fifth game of the best-of-seven series. The Canadiens hold a 3-1 edge in games.

Statewide solid waste reclamation plan backed

MADISON — The state should establish a solid waste reclamation program to assist and possibly replace such enterprises thus far established by the localities, according to a bill offered in the legislature that bears the name of more than a dozen legislators.

Because the measure includes as authors the leaders of both parties in both houses of the legislature, the proposal appears to be one of the serious efforts of the year in the environmental field.

The state-sponsored reclamation agency would be given a nominal appropriation of $350,000 a year, but would have the power to borrow money through revenue bonds. Apparently the measure was inspired in part by the recent decision of the State Supreme Court in a Kaukauna case that such bonds for such a purpose would be valid under the state constitution.

Explanations offered in the bill assert that the authority is intended to be a self-supporting agency for the most part, with most of the operations and capital expenditures to be financed by service revenues and revenue bond issues.

The client of the authority would be the local governmental units of the state, most of which are now heavily involved in solid waste programs at considerable cost. One provision of the measure would require localities to use the services of the state agency, if the latter demanded.

Jurisdiction would encompass the entire state, and it would have the authority to acquire and construct and operate facilities, together with the power to veto such construction by other persons, including municipalities. It would have the power to condemn property, public and private. It would also have the right to require individuals to subscribe to its services.

Among the sponsors are Speaker Norman Anderson of the assembly, Sen. Robert Knowles, president of the senate, Rep. Anthony Earl, Democratic majority leader of the assembly, and Sen. Ray Johnson of Eau Claire, state senate Republican majority leader.
